OFFICIAL COMMUNICATIONS

Councillor Miller introduced Mr. Horst Winkler who provided the Council with information regarding the "sister city" relationship between Indianapolis and Cologne, West Germany. Mr. Winkler stated that he is a Consulate for the West German government in Indianapolis, and he has worked closely with the Mayor of Indianapolis to pursue the "sister city" relationship which will involve various cultural and trade exchanges between the two cities. In a visit to Cologne, West Germany in October of 1985, the Mayor of Indianapolis along with Mr. Winkler and other guests discussed the "sister city" relationship with West German Government officials. One of the West German government officials is involved with Lufthansa German Airlines, and it is hoped that the Airlines will establish a connection at the Indianapolis International Airport. A jazz orchestra from the University of Cologne will visit Indianapolis and perform in the Circle Theatre on June 1, 1986. Mr. Winkler summarized by stating that a "seed fund" had been acquired to support activities of the "sister city" relationship and that there will be future fund raising efforts.

Councillor SerVaas introduced his wife, Dr. Cory SerVaas, who announced that The Saturday Evening Post along with Mary Kay Cosmetics and the firm of Thompson CTR are sponsoring a new concept of offering mamograms to women in the Indianapolis area through a "mammobile" which is a van equipped with diagnostic radiology equipment. Dr. Cory SerVaas stated that mamograms can reveal breast tumors in early stages of development which are much too small to be detected through a normal palpitation examination, and a new Kodak film being used in the "mammobile" offers approximately 60% less radiation than film previously used. Statistics are that one out of every eleven women will have breast cancer in the United States.

Dr. Cory SerVaas introduced Carol Floyd, Mary Kaye Cosmetics in Dallas, Texas, Jenny Wentz, Thompson CTR, and Dr. Pat Harper, Radiologist at Indiana University specializing in mamograms, who expressed appreciation for the opportunity to present the new "mammobile" in Indianapolis.

The President called for the reading of Official Communications. The Clerk read the following:

A SPECIAL RESOLUTION urging the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to promote economic growth by amending corporate average fuel economy standards.

WHEREAS, Congress sought to provide the program with flexibility by granting the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) the authority to amend standards by considering the most recent information regarding economic practicability, technological feasibility and the need of the nation to conserve energy; and

WHEREAS, continued adherence to these outdated standards would have only a minute effect on national energy consumption and could well be counterproductive on energy and jobs; and

WHEREAS, NHTSA has proposed for many of the same reasons to amend the standard for 1987 and 1988 to a level within the range 26.0 - 27.5 mpg, inclusive; now, therefore:
