History of the Common Council of the City of Indianapolis

Indianapolis was established as a town in 1821. It was at this time that a commission, appointed by the legislature, selected this location as a site for a seat of government of the State of Indiana.

The Town of Indianapolis conducted its affairs pursuant to the general laws of the state until 1832. In this year the town was incorporated and was governed by a board of five trustees.

In 1838, pursuant to a special act of the legislature, Indianapolis was re-incorporated and placed in the hands of its first Town Council composed of a president and six members.

The Common Council continued in a large measure to control the affairs of Indianapolis as a town and as a city under various so-called charters or grants of the legislature until 1891.

Under a special act of the legislature of 1891 for the City of Indianapolis, a somewhat different form of government was established. While the Council continued to exercise broad control over the city's affairs, various executive departments of the city were provided, such as Public Works, Public Safety, Public Parks and Public Health, conducted by boards appointed by the Mayor. These boards were granted specific powers and duties concerning the city's business previously exercised by the Council through committees subject, however, in some cases to approval of the Council in all matters of expenditure of money and appropriation of funds by the Council.

For some time prior to 1891 the City of Indianapolis was divided into 25 wards represented by 25 Ward Councilmen. Their term of office was two years and they were eligible for re-election. At this time there was also a separate body operating in conjunction with the Council called the Board of Aldermen, composed of ten Aldermen, representing five Aldermen districts, two being elected from each district.

Under the 1891 act, the Board of Aldermen was abolished and a Common Council of 21 members was established. Fifteen members were elected to represent 15 wards and six members were elected to represent the city at large.

This form of Council continued to exist in Indianapolis under the general cities and towns act of 1905. The act of 1905, while often referred to as the Indianapolis Charter, is very largely a re-enactment of the 1891 Indianapolis Charter, modified to make the Indianapolis system applicable to all classes of cities of the state. The 1905 law increased the term of Mayor and Councilmen to four years and prohibited re-election.

In 1909 a novel Councilmanic law for Indianapolis alone was passed by the legislature. This law limits the number of Councilmen to nine. The law provides for the nomination by each party of six candidates, one from each of six Councilmanic Districts. In the election all of the voters of the City may vote for any nine candidates and the nine receiving the highest number of votes are elected. This law insures a minority representation in the Council of at least three members. In 1949 the legislature amended the statutes to permit Councilmen to succeed themselves.

History of the City—County Council of the City of Indianapolis

In 1969 the legislature enacted a law, popularly known as the "Unigov Act," which consolidated the City and County into one governmental unit. The act further provided for the creation of an interim City-County Council which served as the legislative body for the City and County until the new Council was selected in November, 1971, and took office in January of 1972.

The act provided for the division of the County into twenty-five single member Councilmanic Districts, each district electing one resident from that district. In addition, there were four At-large Councilmen, elected by voters of the entire County.

Unified Government of Indianapolis-Marion County is an attempt to make metropolitan government simpler, more functional and more responsive to citizens' needs. Under the new structure, six major departments replace the more than sixty which were in existence previously.
