

PROGRAM OF THE SECTION ON GEOLOGY AND GEOGRAPHY

Chairman: ALFRED H. MEYER, Valparaiso University

1. Some phases of the limestone industry of Monroe County, Indiana. Barbara K. Dietrich, Indiana University.
2. Study of a mineralized area in the Harrodsburg limestone. Gordon F. Fix, Indiana University.
3. Auto-planetabling: An economical and expeditious method of geographic mapping. Alfred H. Meyer, Valparaiso University.
4. On a pre-Shelbyville extension of the Wisconsin ice-sheet. J. E. Ewers, Terre Haute.
5. Status of aerial photography in Indiana—October, 1936. T. M. Bushnell, Purdue University.

The following title was not included in the published program, but the paper is published in this volume.

Oölites in the Green River formation of central Utah, and the problem of oölite growth. Stewart L. Schoff, DePauw University.

Dr. Wendell LeRoy Perkins, of Indiana State Teachers College, was elected chairman of the section for 1937.